

L-W Board To Sell Tax Warrants In Installments

The Lincoln-Way High school board of education Thursday night agreed to issue $40,000 of $160,000 in tax anticipation warrants this month, to the four banks in the school district.

Banks receiving a $10,000 building warrant at 3 1/2 percent interest will be the Frankfort State Bank, Mokena State Bank, New Lenox State Bank and the Manhattan State Bank.

Over a period of the next four months, a total of $160,000 in tax anticipation warrants will be issued to replenish the building and educational funds. It is anticipated that possibly the last $20,000 will not be needed.

The board voted to pay $750 to the R. J. Johnson company, a portion of the final payment on the construction work. The amount of $250 was held out until it is determined who will be billed for a blacktopping job in that amount...the school or the construction firm. Upon determination, the remaining $250 will be paid.

Members of the board hired Tom Thompson to assist in the vocal department, primarily in contest work. He will be paid $1,000 for the remaining semester. Thompson has been assisting in the department as a practice teacher.

Also hired Thursday night was Mrs. Jane Bills of Mokena in the English department. She will replace Mrs. Jane Sullivan who tendered her resignation at the last board meeting. Mrs.

Bills, who has been a regular substitute in the department, will receive a salary of $2,000 for the second semester.

A committee of three board members was appointed to confer and go over the salary schedule and teacher contracts for the 1961-62 school year. On the committee are board members C. L. Klasing, Lauren Sleeter and Earl Robinson. They will meet next Thursday evening at 7:30 p.m. to go over the contracts. Their report and recommendations will be given at the next regular meeting of the board of education.

George Abraham, chairman of the science department, was present at the meeting to ask approval of funds and expenditures for the science department for the coming year. The board approved the amount of $7,385.22 in order that Abraham can make application for the NDEA reimbursement to the department. This amounts to 38 per cent or $4,578.84.

Abraham also explained to the members a plan for enlarging the science department to accommodate more students as the enrollment grows in future years. He presented a thorough report and inventory of stock and materials essential in lab work.

A discussion of air-borne TV reception equipment ensued. A. Hunter Chapman, principal of Lincoln-Way, explained that for the present he would like to have air-borne TV installed for the teachers. This would allow the teachers to study new ideas, teaching techniques and other methods. The board talked about purchasing one receiver set for the school. This would necessitate a special antenna.

Several bids for equipment were approved. The Book shop of Joliet was low bidder for 600 reams of paper, at 90 cents a ream, delivered. The contract for a front lobby entrance rubber mat was given to Macklin Sales company for a vinyl mat, priced at $217.20. The board also okayed the purchase of 25 dozen pink Turkish towels for the girl's gym, at $7 a dozen from the Hork Sanitary Rag Co.

Conduct Last Rites For Christ A. Sangmeister

Christ A. Sangmeister, 73, former Green Garden resident, died Sunday night (Jan. 29) at his home, 151 N. Raynor ave., Joliet. He had been under a doctor's care for several years because of a heart condition.

He and his wife had been visiting in Aurora Sunday and had arrived home about 8:30 o'clock. Mr. Sangmeister complained of not feeling well and lay down on a bed. He suffered a seizure and his wife called the Joliet fire department for an inhalator squad. The crew was unable to revive Mr. Sangmeister and he expired about 8:45.

Mr. Sangmeister was born in Green Garden township, the son of the late Adam and Christina Sippel Sangmeister, and farmed there until 1942 when he became a resident of Mokena, where he owned a farm. He held that post until 1948 when he was appointed jailer by the late Sheriff Ernest Overbey and remained there during the latter's term.

Mr. Sangmeister was a member of Frankfort camp, Modern Woodmen of America, the Will County Sportsmen's club and the First Presbyterian church of Joliet.

Besides his wife, Leona, Mr. Sangmeister is survived by two daughters, Loretta Maass and Margaret, Mrs. Arthur Fleck, both of Joliet; one sister, Mrs. Magdalene Laum, of Blue Island, one brother, Conrad, of Frankfort, and two grandchildren.

Removal was to the Sonntag, Burgess and Wylie chapel, Joliet where the body remained until 12:30 yesterday (Wednesday) when it was taken to the First Presbyterian church to lie in state until 1:30 when funeral services were conducted with the Rev. Robert Gibson officiating. Burial was in Rose Hill cemetery, Green Garden.

SPC To Talk About Plans For Pavilion

Reports on plans for the Frankfort Community Park pavilion from other organizations will constitute a large portion of the business at the SPC meeting Thursday night at the home of Mrs. Irving Rudman, 34 W. Nebraska St., Frankfort.

Representatives of other Frankfort organizations went back to their groups with plans for the pavilion. Thursday night they will determine if it can be built and fund raising methods which could be used by the various clubs and civic organizations.

Other business for the evening will include reports on the final sales of the calendars, listing all activities and their meeting dates in Frankfort.

Mrs. Rudman said she distributed calendars to residents of Arbury Hills and to new residents in Frankfort in the hope of acquainting them with the activities and functions in the community.

CD To Install Transmitter At Frankfort To Serve County

The transmitter for the repetition of radio messages beamed to the schools of Will county equipped with the special receivers obtainable thru civil defense agencies is to be located in the village hall at Frankfort. The antenna from which the signals will go out is to be located atop the village water tower.

Frankfort was chosen as the site for the repeater station because it is recognized as the highest point in Will county so that radio messages dispatched from there are expected to reach all areas within the county boundaries.

The office of Verne E. Crackel, county superintendent of schools, in the courthouse at Joliet will serve as the point of origin for messages which may be sent out in conjunction with the civil defense program.

Thus the system could be used to warn teachers and children in the event of an enemy attack or threatened attack, it was pointed out. It also could be used to alert schools in the event of tornadoes or other violent storms or to use schools as message distribution centers in the event of some disaster which might disrupt other forms of communication.

The transmitter at Frankfort will be equipped with a gasoline driven generator in the event of the failure of Public Service Co. power lines. In the event of power failure the transmitter would switch to the generator, automatically.

In fact everything about the apparatus is automatic, Robert McFadden, county director of civil defense told the Frankfort village board at its meeting Monday night. He was present to get permission to use the facilities of the village.

Work on the installation is to begin in about a week and should be completed next month McFadden said. The installation will be complete, including a 500-gallon buried gasoline tank to carry a fuel supply for the generator.

Finding a welder who can work aloft was one of his difficult chores, McFadden said. The antenna is to be placed on the roof of the water tower.

The schools purchase their receiving sets thru the civil defense.

Avoids Traffic Delay To Encounter Real Stopper

While avoiding congestion caused by one train, John Cottone, 54, of 302 Cedar Road, New Lenox, almost lost his life under another, Monday.

Cottone was northbound on Hillcrest Rd., north of the intersection with East Washington St., in Joliet when his auto struck the guard-rail on the bridge over the New York Central railroad tracks.

Cottone's auto went partially over the edge of the bridge, where it teetered for several minutes before Cottone got out. When Deputy Sheriffs Donald Knutson and LeRoy Emley arrived at the scene, the car was hanging over the edge. Both front wheels were off the bridge.

Upon noticing the lights of an oncoming train, Deputy Knutson lit a red flare, slid down a steep embankment, then ran up the tracks toward the fast approaching freight train.

The engineer, Morris Niedlinger of Berringer Springs, (Ill.), brought the train to a halt within 20 feet of where the heavy iron railing lay across the tracks.

The 11-post railing was knocked off the bridge by the crash.

Knutson was credited by railroad representatives at the scene for his quick action in preventing possible derailment of the seven-car westbound local freight train.

The bridge has been the scene of several fatal accidents in recent years.

The train was delayed for more than an hour while wrecking crews removed the heavy railing.

Under questioning by deputies, Cottone said he was enroute to work in Rockdale when he was delayed by a train at the Washington Street E. J. and E. Crossing. He then turned around and took the long way... over Hillcrest road.

Red Cross Makes Plans

Volunteers will seek $90,000 in the March campaign of Red Cross for funds and members in Will county.

Warren L. Wood, vice-president of Union National Bank and Trust company, Joliet, and George H. Isaacson, director of American Institute of Laundering, Joliet, head the campaign.

Wood said the funds are needed to finance local and national services. Assistance to servicemen and veterans and their families is a major program for Will county people, Wood explained, but the agency also serves the general public.

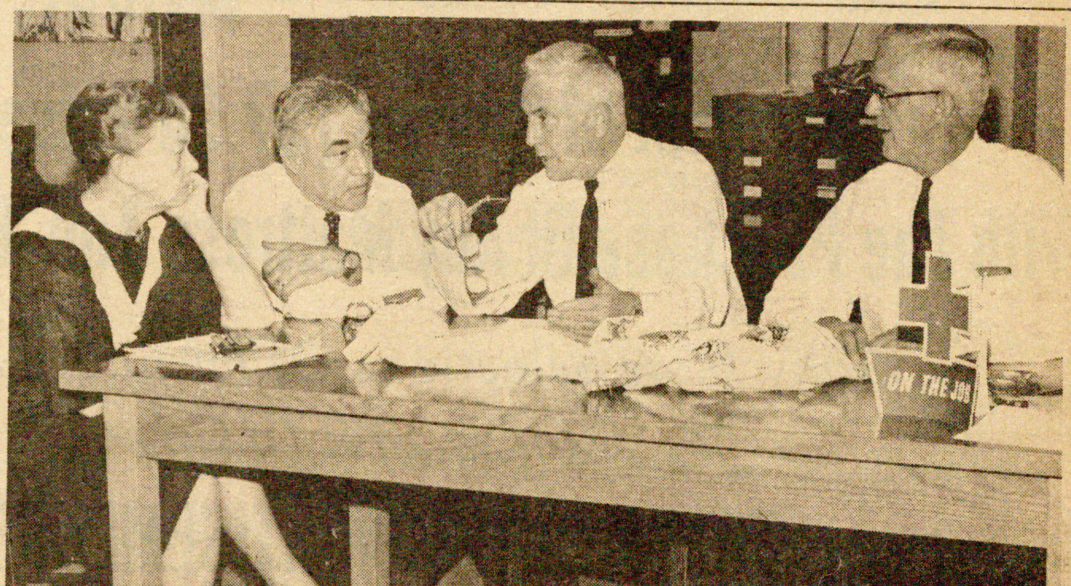

He listed among the public programs the first aid and water safety classes, aid to victims of fires which destroy their homes and numerous smaller projects, such as manning first aid stations for large gatherings.

"Red Cross help to disaster victims in all parts of the world is one of the organization's best known services," Wood added. "The county chapter contributes to the national fund for disaster relief and once in a while benefits directly from that program." He cited as an example the 1957 floods in Will county which brought aid from National Red Cross.

NEW LENOX' NEW SQUAD CAR doesn't belong to the village. The board this year decided to rent rather than buy a car and according to the figures it should be cheaper. The village leased the car from Gerald Shreffler, gas station operator, for $138.50 a month. The village buys the gasoline but the rest of the expense is borne by the lessor.

RED CROSS LEADERS in Will county get up before breakfast and down to shirtsleeves as they prepare for the March campaign for funds and members in an early-morning meeting. From left are Bernice M. Keenan, executive secretary of Will county chapter; Constantine Macris, chapter chairman; Warren L. Wood, campaign chairman, and George H. Isaacson, co-chairman.

Eighteen school districts in southwest Cook county have formed an association to provide for the education of mentally retarded pupils with funds for the purpose coming from tax monies. In the past such costs have been borne by the parents.

Inasmuch as there is considerable interest in this phase of education and a need for proper understanding on the subject the Orland Center P-T club invites the public to hear Mr. Singer.

At the January meeting Dr. Norman Patterson, optometrist, of Tinley Park, gave a talk with the aid of slides--regarding the proper care of children's eyes during their pre-school and school years.

Board Of Trade Visit Gives 4-H Boys Insight Into Grain Marketing

(Editor's Note: The following article was written by Leslie Yunker, 17, of Orland Park, following a visit to the Chicago Board of Trade as one of the winners in the grain marketing program conducted among 4-H clubs in 12 states. The program was sponsored by the Board of Trade and one of the awards was a trip to Chicago so the youngsters could gain a first hand knowledge of the mechanics and methods of marketing grain. The lads were asked to write their impressions of what they saw. Leslie has done a good job of reporting and his article is not only interesting but should be informative to many.)

By LESLIE ALLAN YUNKER
Marketplace U, S. A. Chicago Board of Trade in the heart of downtown Chicago. As we look north from the visitors gallery over looking the trading floor we see the worlds largest grain exchange in action.

At exactly 9:30 A.M. each morning, Monday through Friday, until 1:15, this floor is bustling with confusion, activity, and a roaring noise. We see men in the pits making all sorts of hand gestures.

These hand gestures are bids to buy and offers to sell. The palm of the hand held up and inward is a bid to buy, when the palm is held outward it is a offer to sell. Fingers held vertically indicate the quantities to be traded, each finger representing 5,000 bushels of grain.

Prices are indicated by fingers held horizontally, each finger representing 1/8 of a cent. About two-thirds of the area of the trading floor is assigned to facilities for "futures" trading. "Futures" in grain trade phraseology, are contracts entered into verbally and confirmed later in writing between two members of the exchange, either for their own account as principals or as agents or brokers for others. Such contracts call for the delivery of a specified number of bushels of a certain grain of commercial quality, during a definite month and at an agreed price.

In contrast to such a contract, a "cash grain" transaction usually involves a specific boxcar, boat, or barge load of a definite grade, sold for immediate delivery instead of at some distant date. While there are other differences between a "futures" and a "cash" grain transaction, the principal difference is that pertaining to time of delivery.

As I look around this huge room I see on both sides of the visitors' gallery, several hundred feet of blackboards that carry statistical and price information of a varying nature. Board-markers rapidly record each change in commodity futures prices as fast as they occur.

Not only are these "quotes" posted for the Chicago market, but also for trades reported from the Minneapolis, Kansas City and Winnipeg exchanges. Price information cables also are received and posted periodically from Liverpool.

Most futures orders are received on the trading floor by telephone. To handle the thousands of calls coming in during every trading session, three batteries of telephone stations are strategically located near the "pits." A pit is a series of steps in an octagonal shape. As the orders are received by the phone men, they are rushed by messengers to brokers in the pits for execution. It is not unusual for a customer in San Francisco to be notified of completion of his order in less than two minutes after he placed it with his brokerage firm.

Generally, there are five different futures in which trading is being conducted concurrently in each pit. In September, for instance, there usually is trading in the September and December futures for the current year, and March, May and July of the coming year in wheat, corn, oats, and rye; in soybeans, the months would be: September and November of the current year, and January, March and May of the following. The name of the month serves only to identify the time at which the contract matures.

All futures contracts are entered into public outcry so that any trader in the pit who wishes to take the opposite side of the trade may do so. Instead of conducting purchases and sales through an auctioneer, as is done at some commodity exchanges, futures trading on the Chicago Board of Trade is done directly between members. Each trader lists all of his completed transactions on a trading card. These cards are printed in two colors, one side in blue for "bought" trades and the reverse side in red for "sold" trades. Any trade that has been "carded" shows the number of bushels involved, the grain and the maturity month of the contract, the price, the name of the firm which is the other principal and the initials of the other broker. These trading cards constitute the original record and from them the essential data is transferred to ledgers in the offices of the grain firms involved.

After a trade has been checked between the two brokers who actually consummated it, the price data and any other pertinent information is jotted down by the broker on the order blanks and returned by messenger to the phone desk. The information is then phoned to the offices of grain firms involved so customers may be apprised of the trades.

Above each pit is raised "pulpit" from which two or more Board of Trade employees, called quotation reporters, are constantly observing the changing price picture. As fast as trades are made at prices differing from their immediate predecessors, a record is made of the new price and transmitted by teletype to a quotations central. From there, they go by Morse code to the board-markers on the trading floor of the Chicago Board of Trade and to other exchanges all over the country as well as to hundreds of offices, in and out of Chicago, by means of quotation tickers. Prices are posted immediately and constitute "the market" until another trade is made at a different figure. In a busy market, with corn, oats, rye, soybeans, soybean meal, soybean oil, lard, cotton, cottonseed oil, and grain sorghums, and with four or more futures being traded in concurrently, there is a steady flow of quotations coming from the exchange for nationwide distribution.

About one-third of the space on the trading floor of the Chicago Board of Trade is given over to cash grain transactions. On that side of the hall, next to the north windows which furnish the most uniform and best light for the judging of the samples of grain displayed for sale, are thirty large tables. Each table holds small bags of grain drawn that day by the Illinois state grain inspection department and samples drawn by the Board of Trade sampling department.

On our trip we were also lucky enough to go thru the grain grading station here at the Chicago Board of Trade and saw how the grain was graded, tested for foreign materials and moisture, and divided into eight smaller samples from the primary sample. The men in charge also explained to us how freight charges of grain were sampled for testing.

In our sessions on grain marketing we also learned much about "hedging." The first and most important function of a futures market is to provide facilities for hedging. "Hedging" is a process by which people in the grain and allied business can better protect themselves against price risk, and thus operate on relatively narrow margins of profit.

The ownership of grain involves a business risk because of constantly changing price or value. Future markets provide an insurance medium whereby grain handlers may reduce or shift their price risks.

In hedging, a person does two things at once -- he operates in both the cash and futures markets at the same time, but in opposite directions. For example, on July 1, a miller buys 5,000 bushels of wheat at $2 per bushel in the cash market. He then sells 5,000 bushels of September wheat futures at $2 per bushel. Now the miller holds opposite positions in the two markets. The cash wheat he has in inventory is covered by a sale in the futures market. As long as the miller holds a futures position exactly opposite to his cash inventory, he doesn't need to worry greatly about which way market prices may go. A loss in one generally means an approximate offsetting profit in the other. The hedge, or position in the futures market, is much like holding an insurance policy on the value of the wheat the miller has in inventory. The miller transferred most of the risk of ownership of his grain supplies to the futures market, probably to a speculator, just as a car owner by holding an accident insurance policy transfers the risk of having an accident to an insurance company.

This completes the many unforgettable experiences I had at the Chicago Board of Trade on the trip I won for the grain marketing activity which I was enrolled in last year in our 4-H

More About Schools

In a recent editorial we expressed a desire to keep our schools independent of state and federal control; to keep such control at local levels.

Last week we received a letter from Senator Lottie Holman O'Neill who represents the people of Will and DuPage counties in the Illinois senate, in which she agreed with the thought expressed.

"The local control of education is an American tradition and must be protected by our people," she stated.

Mrs. O'Neill has a long and distinguished record in the Illinois legislature, having served in both house and senate. She has a record of being a good friend to the schools and has championed all legislation which she believed would improve our educational system and the lot of teachers as well as pupils.

Therefore, when Senator O'Neill discusses schools and their problems she is talking on a subject with which she is quite familiar.

In her letter of last week the senator brought up some other points which we believe should be of interest to our readers, the emphasis now being placed on what are known in some circles as "head shrinkers."

We quote Senator O'Neill:

"Another matter connected without schools which should have immediate attention is the intrusion of the welfare state into our educational system. I refer to the hoard of psychologists, psychiatrists, counsellors, supervisors and others.

"The pattern seems to be to find what they refer to as a 'maladjusted' child and then in an attempt to change his behavioral habits he is sent down the line for questioning and a general checking of his life and background.

"The people engaged in this strata of our educational system receive more pay than teachers for the most part, thereby making for bad personal relations. What I want to say is that if we get rid of this classification of behavior experts and let our teachers teach the children instead of making reports and doing the clerical work incident to this outside group.

"Some states have eliminated these people from their schools and it would be well to explore that possibility in Illinois before descending on Washington and the taxpayers with requests for huge sums for spending.

"Economy must have a larger place in our calculations and a good place to start is in the schools. Let us have good, well paid teachers in comfortable and adequate classrooms. Let the children alone. The school is no place to decide if and when Johnny is a wallflower and what to do about it.

"The H. E. W. department in Washington, with the aid of the N. E. A., I. E. A., School Problems commissions etc. should be explored as to their objectives and the cost."

On Second Thought

By GLENN F. LOGAN

Occupations make conversation.

"You said a mouthful there, me boy," said Gerald Fitzgerald O'Bannon, reading over my shoulder. O'Bannon, like Jefferson Throttletbottom has very rigid ideas on business--everybody's business is their business and the only privacy they acknowledge is their own.

"I agree with you," he went on, "that the jobs people have serve as conversational pieces as well as a means of livelihood. According to Emily Post, or some arbiter of etiquette, taking shop at a social gathering marks one as of limited intelligence and lacking in social flair.

"If that be the case then I would say the vast majority of men would fall into such categories.

"Go to any social affair and what do you find men talking about but their work. If they are fortunate enough not to have to work they talk about their hobbies.

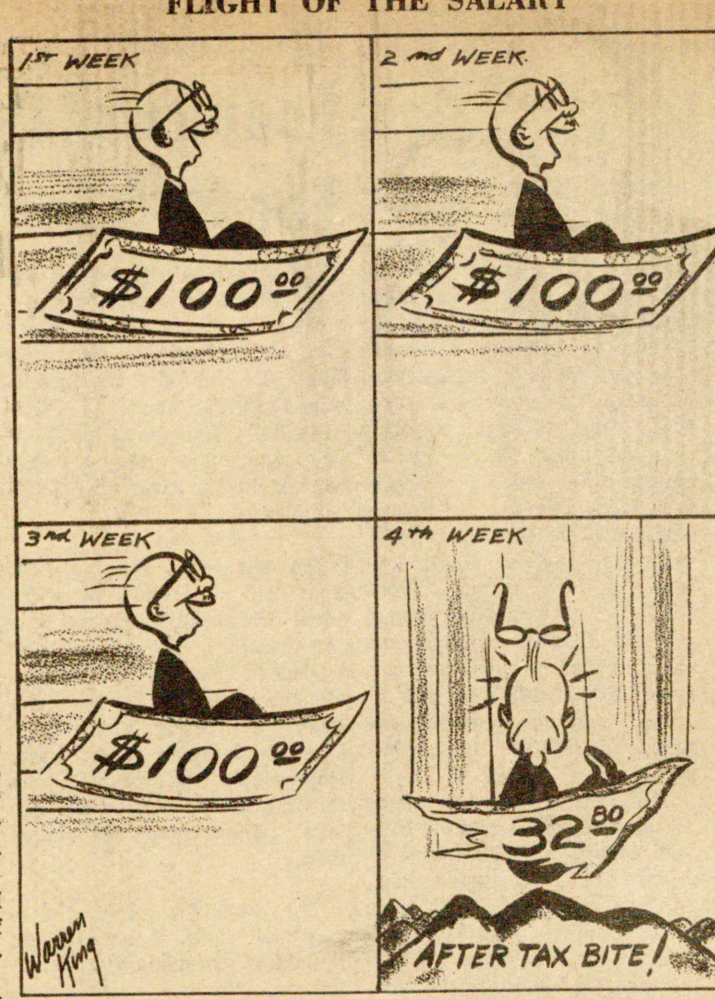

"If the affair draws people interested in government then they talk politics. If the horse set predominates then they talk about horses. If painters, authors, or composers are the guests of honor the talk turns to art, literature and music.

The women talk about clothes, each other, children, clothes, each other, house furnishings, the cost of living and other stimulating subjects.

"The way it sounds to me when a party is going full blast," Gerald continued, "occupations appear to be the center of conversation. Maybe someone who has heard that it is not socially smart to talk about his own occupation, and believes it, will talk about the other fellow's. The plumber may talk about golf, and the golfer talk about plumbing; subscribers to Coronet and the Readers' Digest will discourse on advances in medicine and the wonder drugs; doctors and surgeons may talk learnedly about sports cars; mechanics may hold forth on music; musicians may discuss architecture and so on and so on.

"Then someone mentions a subject that calls for an expression from someone who really really knows the answer and after it has been given the talk falls into regular channels -- merchants talk merchandizing, plumbers talk plumbing, insurance men talk insurance, musicians talk music. And they all enjoy themselves.

"Ace golfers, champion bowlers, major league baseball, football or basketball players still get a hearing when they talk of their particular fields but the fishermen, hunters, stamp and coin collectors, and the other hobbyists have to buttonhole each other to get an audience.

"The truth is," Gerald went on, "that most people who like their work like to talk about it and I don't mind. The fact is one can learn a lot by listening. I can truthfully say I am not bored by shop talk. A fellow who knows his job can be more interesting in talking about that than in discussing a subject on which he has but superficial knowledge.

"Of course, some occupations have more appeal than others. Some are definitely limited and therefore boring. Take my own case. Call it occupation or vocation -- I am a horse player. Turn me loose and I quickly become a bore. The only one who may have any interest in what I have to say is another horse player and that would be more on a basis of comparing notes and sage observations concerning the prospects of various entries.

"Now if I were a handicapper the methods I use might have some general interest; or people if I were a jockey I might command an audience, especially of horse players. But as a horse player my conversational limits are pretty well confined.

"I think," Mr. O'Bannon would up, "that if I wanted to be the center of attention at every gathering I would become a weatherman. The weather is a subject that interests everyone. And just look at opportunities one has if he can meet the weatherman in person -- he can tell him off or can find out if he really approaches forecasting from a scientific angle or has a trick knee.

"Even the perch of Lake Michigan rate a lot of newspaper space and conversation each year in their prediction as to whether it will be a mild winter or a cold one. Last fall put out the word this would be a warm winter and is that making for a lot of hot conversation now."

Hints For Homeowners

By: JAMES FIZZEL, ASS'T. FARM ADVISER

The Sansevarias, or as they are commonly known, mother-in-law's tongue, are one of the most easily grown house plants. Most people are familiar with the common green Sansevaria trifasciata, but are unaware of the large number of other varieties available. There are tall and short, variegated and not variegated, spiral, novelty, and cylindrical forms.

Modern use of plants in home decorating demands use of bold striking plants. One of the sansevarias will often fill the need particularly well, because there is such a variety of forms to choose from.

READ ROMANS 8:1-6

They that are after the flesh do mind the things of the flesh; but they that are after the spirit mind the things of the Spirit. (Romans 8:5).

Food is a basic necessity for the body. Moreover, the production, distribution, and preparation of its provide employment for a vast portion of the world's population. But meat and bread are not to have priority in our concern.

The Master's counsel that man shall not live by bread alone, but by every word that proceeds out of the mouth of God, needs reaffirmation in our day by each of us. Let us look about our homes to see where we are putting it on the material.

We do well to keep in mind that our standard of attainment is set by God, not by man. We reach it not by measuring ourselves by ourselves, but only by bringing our desires into conformity with God's will.

God has expressed this will through His Son, our Lord, and constantly reminds us of it through whisperings of the Holy Spirit.

PRAYER: Grant, O God our Father, that we may be motivated by the mind of Christ. Discontent us with that which is small and base -- out of character for us. Help us in our outreach and upreach to partake of Thy divine nature; through Christ our Lord. Amen.

THOUGHT FOR THE DAY
In the presence of the inescapable Christ, we cannot plead ignorance of God's purpose for man.

John Marvin Rast (South Carolina).

Business & Finance

By MAURICE P. ANGLAND

Investment advice from those sources which we feel are the best see considerable business improvement within the next few months. The stock market which usually anticipates market turns by about six months, certainly is indicating business improvement.

It is interesting to follow the investment trends of the large institutional investors. This group which publishes quarterly reports on investment holdings and changes, are largely Mutual Funds which are under professional investment management.

Reports by these funds are reported by Arthur Weisenberger & Co., show a shift from the utilities which had top interest for past eighteen months. Sales of utilities stocks were $37 million as against purchases of $23 million.

The oils, for the first time since the middle of 1959, were very much in favor. Next to oils, in favor, were electric and electronic, utility, food and beverage, drug and cosmetics, and chemicals.

Weisenberger reports that of 28 funds studied (which represent 43 per cent of investment funds of group) the most heavily purchased stocks, based on dollar value, were Champion Spark Plug, Continental Oil, American Machine & Foundry, Stop & Shop (grocery chain) and Olivetti (which controls Underwood).

Heaviest liquidation was in: Reynolds Metals, Otis Elevator, International Paper, Westinghouse Electric, and Phillips Lamp Works Holding Co.

Fortune Magazine's monthly business roundup report in January issue, forecasts for the next 18 months, a $40 billion increase in gross national product, more government spending, a reversal of inventory liquidation, and a capital shortage in 1962.

"The U. S. economy is heading into a broad advance that in the next eighteen months should carry gross national product from present rate of $505 billion to $545 billion and will produce a sizeable boom within a years time."

The article goes on to state that in its opinion inventory liquidation of 1960 is about completed and points out that sales to final users have advanced steadily. It expresses belief that inventory replacement buying will start with steel and spread to other materials and components.

The federal government began expanding its outlays twelve months ago, and the rate of total government spending, including state and local, has increased about $10 billion. The trend will continue, based on in-

WILLIAM F. WHITESIDE

COOK COUNTY ASSOC. FARM ADVISER TINLEY PARK - KE 2-4374.

Four local agricultural 4-H club leaders attended the district 4-H leaders' conference Jan. 18, at Kankakee. They are: Mrs. Marvin Cooper, Charles Homan, Orland Park; Mrs. Earl Siemsen and Mrs. Katherine Ihlenfeld, Tinley Park.

Special topics discussed at the conference included: Are we teaching citizenship in 4-H? Is our junior leadership in 4-H based on popularity? Is 4-H club work teaching citizenship?

Part of the meeting included a tape recording of a study done on Korean prisoners of war. The recording was made by one of the nation's foremost authorities on communist indoctrination.

Here is another reminder of the Soil Conservation District annual meeting, Feb. 10, 8 p.m., Farm Bureau building, Tinley Park. Earl Siemsen, Tinley Park, district chairman, extends a special invitation to all district landowners to hear a discussion of the proposed merger of the Will and South Cook Districts.

Feb. 15 is the deadline date for farmers to file income tax. I have a supply of the Farmer's Tax Guide.

Dairymen in this area should circle Feb. 6 on the calendar. This is Dairy Day. University dairy scientists will present an informative program including the following topics: Maximum use of corn and corn silage in the diet of dairy animals; use of urea, molasses, yeast, stilbestrol, vitamins and antibiotics in dairy rations; new systems of evaluating the transmitting ability of bulls; what's new in milking and handling creases in spending on defense, highways, and other programs started in 1960. The new administration is expected to augment this spending.

Credit policies have been eased over the past year. This lowered interest rates and makes it easier to sell bond issues with lower costs to the borrowers. Likely results increase in public works, busimilking machines; controlling the face fly; and many others.

Farmers are not the only group that have faced competition keen enough to force them out of business.

University of Illinois agricultural economist R. W. Bartlett points out that American industry in general has been competitive in recent years. Even though population has risen 46 percent since 1929, he cites these reductions in various industrial groups during the past 30 years:

- Retail food stores--33 percent.
- Dairy manufacturing plants - 56 percent.
- Farms - 28 percent.
- Coal miners - 64 percent.
- Railroad employees - 20 percent.

University of Illinois agronomists have some definite recommendations to make on which spring oat varieties to plant in 1961.

In northern Illinois, Goodfield rates high on the list. Goodfield has very good lodging and rust resistance and is high in test weight. It is a new variety, released in 1959 from Wisconsin, and data from Illinois research plots shows it yields comparatively well on highly fertile soils.

Minhafer is also recommended. The outstanding characteristic of this oat is its resistance to all prevalent stem and leaf rusts in the cornbelt. Clinton 60 and Newton are other varieties worth considering in northern Illinois. While Beedee does not equal the disease resistance of the other varieties, it has short, plump, wide kernels and is a good feeding oat. Shield is a new early Canadian oat variety. It has high yields but does not equal the other varieties in disease resistance.

ness building, and most forms of construction where ease of securing and costs of money, are very important.

The report states, "There is no room now for a cut back in investment. Rather it is likely to expand since other forces in the economy are expanding."

The survey believes that in 1962 the use of plant and equipment by industry, will be greater than any time since 1955.

150 Attend Conservation Meeting At Marley

One hundred fifty members and friends of the Will County Soil Conservation district met at the Marley church Thursday night, Jan. 19 for their annual dinner meeting. At 6:30 o'clock, a ham dinner was served by the ladies of the Marley Missionary society, following the invocation by James Tilsy.

Loren Sass, president of the district, called the meeting to order and presided. The major objectives of the board were brought out as the annual reports were presented:

1. To assist farmers in the planning of cropping systems and water management programs that fit their soil types and slope conditions.

2. To assist farmers, through surveys and other engineering activities, in applying the soil erosion control and water management practices needed on their farms.

3. To provide counseling assistance in soil and water management to occupiers or developers of non-farm land.

4. To assist in teaching the principles of conservation of soil, water, and wildlife to the youth of the county.

5. To aid in stabilizing the general economy of the county thru improvement and wise use of farm lands.

6. To contribute to the general welfare of all people of the county through programs and services which will improve the basic industry of the nation for present and future generations.

Minutes of the last annual meeting were given by Richard McHugh, secretary. The financial report was presented by Charles Head, treasurer. The activities and accomplishments report was presented by Conservationist Tom Morgan, in the absence of the vice-president, Bob Norman. The report of the nominating committee was given by their chairman, Robert Burch. Richard McHugh and Robert Norman were both re-elected as directors to the board.

Musical entertainment for the evening was provided by Miss Alma Lauffer at the piano and by Lynne and Stephen Stauffenberg who sang several selections.

The high-light of the evening was the program presented by the Rev. Wm. White of the First Methodist church of DeKalb. Rev. White spoke on the subject, "Full Bins and Empty Stomachs" as he showed colored slides of his trip to the Holy Land.

Keep Weight Normal Urges Heart Assoc.

Pointing out that "overweight overworks the heart," the Illinois Heart Association today appealed to the public to adopt the following New Year's resolution:

"Resolved, that during 1961 I will do everything within my power to keep my weight at a reasonably normal level as a means of safeguarding my heart and my health."

The IHA, which will conduct its annual Heart Fund campaign thruout Illinois during February, explained that insurance actuarial studies have shown that there is a penalty attached to added weight so far as mortality is concerned.

According to data collected by life insurance companies, men who are overweight experience a significantly higher mortality than men of average weight. Moreover, the greater the degree of overweight, the larger the discrepancy between the mortality expected in a particular group and the mortality that actually occurs.

Overweight women, too, have a higher mortality than women whose weight is close to average, though they are not as seriously affected as men.

The IHA urges Illinoisans to follow these rules:

1. Keep your weight at the best level for your age, sex and body structure. Your doctor can tell you the ideal weight for you and members of your family.

2. Remember that good nutrition is important, and eat a varied and well balanced diet. If you are in doubt about what to eat, ask your physician.

3. Diet only under medical supervision, and never put yourself on a special diet.

4. If your doctor has put you on a special diet, follow it exactly. Don't make exceptions "just this once."

5. After you bring your weight down to its desirable level, keep it that way.

L-W IS PROUD OF PHYSICAL EDUCATION PROGRAM

VOLLEYBALL is one of the numerous athletic events in the Lincoln-Way high school physical education program in which the girls participate. The girls also play field hockey, basketball, baseball—practically everything but football.

Lincoln-Way Physical Education Program Is Among The Finest

In physical fitness tests approved by the American Association of Health, Physical Education, and Recreation, Lincoln-Way students have ranked well above the national average. The tests have been given at the beginning and end of the past two school years, and each Lincoln-Way student's score has been submitted for comparison. Lincoln-Way's physical education program is one which is complete with various types of individual and group activities.

Some of the outstanding features of the Lincoln-Way P.E. program were recently outlined by Jonas Lashmet, chairman of the department and varsity football coach. Mr. Lashmet explained that the basic purposes of the program are to teach students the value of bodily cleanliness, the importance of physical activity, and the value of participation in sports and games. It is hoped that over the course of four years, students will cultivate these values so that they will carry over into their adult lives.

The freshman program begins with nine weeks' training in health and safety. The remainder of the year is spent in social and square dancing, touch football, basketball, wrestling, and softball. Each day's activity begins with a vigorous series of calisthenics, then participation in some type of sport, and is wound with a brisk shower.

Upperclassmen participate in the following activities in addition to those of the Freshmen: flickerball, weightlifting, volleyball, tumbling, track and field events, archery, horse-shoes, golf, tennis, and such recreational games as table tennis and bowling. The girls' program also includes a unit of study in modern dances. It is hoped that students will remain active in these activities following their graduation, either as participants or spectators.

Coordinators of the girls' P.E. program are Miss Johnson and Miss Federman. Besides Mr. Lashmet, who is chairman of the department, boys' instruction is carried on by Mr. Flanagan, Mr. LaVinn, and Mr. Larsen. Charles Sarkinen, who is an experienced gymnastics instructor, teaches tumbling and gymnastics to both boys and girls.

A unique feature of the Lincoln-Way department is a new Gymnastics Club being organized by Sarkinen. The club meets on Tuesday evening and provides additional instruction for interested students who have special talent. Equipment used includes the Long Horse, Parallel bars, wrestling mats, and trampoline. In the future it is hoped that, through the club, Lincoln-Way will be able to develop a team for interscholastic competition. It is hoped that such a team may be organized in about three years.

Lincoln-Way Defeats Two SWS Cage Foes

Knights Down Spartans 76-61 And Whips Reavis Rams 50-32

by BILL SLUIS
Two more Southwest Suburban conference cage foes fell before the Lincoln-Way Knights this past weekend. The first enemy was Oak Lawn, who the Knights whipped 76-61 Friday night at Oak Lawn. The Reavis Rams were second in line and were beaten 50-32 Saturday night at New Lenox. The victories left Lincoln-Way with a 10-0 slate to lead the SWS, and an overall record of 17-1.

Oak Lawn's Spartans, whom the Knights had beaten by 30 points in December, proved to be the most improved team in the conference Friday night. Lou Dassau, playing in his first Southwest Suburban game, scored 16 buckets and 7 charities for 39 points. Dassau had been ineligible the first semester and broke into competition with a bang.

Despite Lou's fine efforts, however, the visiting Knights ended the evening 76-61 victors. The Knights had control of the game thruout, and led all the way from midway in the first-quarter to the end of the contest. Skip Kruzich of L-W had his finest night this season with 30 markers. Duane Warning scored 15 and Al Waldvogel 14 for the victors.

The Spartans took a momentary lead midway thru the first period, but the Knights overcame the margin and took the lead. Following this, Lincoln-Way set a blistering pace all the way and Oak Lawn was unable to challenge. The Knights led by 15 at the conclusion.

Saturday night found the Reavis Rams visiting the Lincoln-Way gym and losing their horns by a 50-32 deficit. The Rams were reduced to bleeding lambs by Lincoln-Way's great defensive patterns. Skip Kruzich maintained his lead in the SWS scoring race with 15 points. Skip has now scored exactly 350 points this year for a 19.4 per-game average. Duane Warning also scored 15 for the Knights. Bill Marcordes, second in conference scoring this season, led Reavis with 9.

The Knights took an immediate 6-0 lead and were never caught. The Rams were behind 27-20 at half time, and scored only 12 points during the entire second half. It was the sixth consecutive victory for the Knights.

Another basketball season is rapidly drawing to a close. The Knights of Lincoln-Way have only six more regular season contests to play before the regional tournament. Only two more varsity battles are scheduled for the Lincoln-Way hard-court this season. Local fans who are planning to see the Knights in action this season had better make their plans now.

Another busy week-end faces the title-bound Knights. Friday night they journey east to the Park Forest launching pad of the Rich Rockets, who are so-so in conference play. Saturday night they will play a non-conference engagement with the Peotone Blue Devils, who have been very tough this season. The game will be played at L-W.

Lincoln-Way 21 18 20 17-76

Lost time is never found again. -- Ben Franklin

ACTION on the hardwood at Sandburg gym last Friday night. The Eagles took on the Oak Lawn Spartans and at this juncture four tenths of the playing force had only two feet on the floor. That Oak Lawn chap standing off by himself is waiting to see what course the ball is going to take before he joins the fray. The Sandburg man at the left is Lance Roberts and the one with the 2 showing on his jersey and his left arm raised as if in greeting, is Ron Lindgren. Quite a jumble of arms, isn't it?

ON THE TARGET -- This toss by Lance Roberts (No. 54) of Sandburg went swishing thru the net for two points in the SWS conference game against Oak Lawn last Friday in the Orland Park school. The other Sandburg man (a 2 is just showing) standing by in case a follow shot had been necessary is Ron Lindgren. The Eagles could have used a lot more shots like this as they were a bit shy on points at the end.

County Defers Action On Rezoning

(CNS) -- The county board on motion of Commissioner John Duffy has deferred action on rezoning for a 15 million dollar residential development north of Lincoln highway and a half mile west of Cicero avenue in Rich township.

Pacesetter Homes, Inc., 1000 E. 162nd st., South Holland, plans to construct 741 homes on lots of 10,000 square feet if the land is rezoned from its present classification of half-acre lots.

The change would permit erection of double the number of homes allowed under the present zoning.

Rezoning was recommended Wednesday by the county zoning board.

It noted the 345-acre site is "just west of several municipalities which have comparable lot sizes within their municipal limits," also that the state division of highways has definitely established the right of way line of the proposed South Expressway, which would become the eastern border of the Pacesetter development.

Expressway construction plans call for an interchange at Lincoln highway.

The zoning board also noted no objections to rezoning have been made by the villages of Homewood, Matteson, Richton Park, Park Forest, Olympia Fields, and Flossmoor, nor by the cities of Country Club Hills and Chicago Heights.

Lincoln-Way high school wrestlers won their second consecutive title in the invitational tournament held annually at Morris. The Knights won it in 1960 and finished second in the event in 1959 but as the Lincoln-Waymentor, Ron Larson, puts it, the Knights have a good tournament outfit. Fans will remember it was only a few weeks ago that L-W won the tournament at Normal, Ill., an event that drew quite a number of good teams.

In winning at Morris last week-end Lincoln-Way took five first places.

First place winners were: Steve Smith, Cliff Cheatwood, Tony Santerelli, John Charvat, and Jim DeHart. Cliff Cheatwood set a Lincoln-Way school record with an 18 second pin.

Eagles Split Week-End Card Beat Mustangs, Lose To Oaks

by DAVE GONZALEZ

After their game with Evergreen Park last Friday (Feb. 27) which the Eagles won by a score of 58-46 Sandburg clashed with the Oak Lawn Spartans the following night. This was a tough one to lose, but the Spartans proved to be effective enough to put the skids on the eagles by a score of 59 - 54. Both games were played on the Eagles home court.

The Oak Lawn game could well have been called a lesson in fouls. Starting in the first quarter the opening score made by the Eagles resulted in a shot from the charity stripe. This in fact proved to be the tempo of the game as players on both teams had quite an opportunity to view the basket at their leisure from that area. The Oak Lawn squad seemed to have the finger of fate pointed at them this night as they scored again and again from far away places. Unfortunately Sandburg was unable to do the same and several rim shots fell into the eager hands of the Spartans who made good use of the breaks. At the close of the first period the Spartans held an 18 - 13 lead over the Eagles.

The 2nd quarter was a re-hash of the first, with more fouls on both teams and some excellent sharpshooting by Oak Lawns # 21, Guard Richard, from all over the court. Sandburg just couldn't seem to reach the net from in close, Erickson was doing well from outside as was Busch. Sandburg was battling but for some reason just couldn't click. Score at half time was Oak Lawn 47, Sandburg 38.

The Eagles looked best in the final quarter. Using a press in this period and playing with apparent determination the Eagles closed in on the Spartan lead as the clock began running out. However, racing the clock and with the added pressure of the prevailing excitement the Sandburg squad fouled a number of times giving the Oak Lawn team opportunity to add further markers. Sandburg was not able to catch up and the final score was Oak Lawn 59, Sandburg 54.

High scorer for the Eagles was Duane Erickson with 21 points. The Spartans high man was Richard with 31.

Score by quarters

	1st	2nd	3rd	4th
Oak Lawn	18	34	47	59
Sandburg	13	24	38	54

Sandburgs next game will be against the Reavis Rams at Reavis high school tomorrow night (Feb. 3.)

N. Lenox Fire

Dept. Answers

Two Alarms

A chimney burned out at the home of Loren F. Cantrell, 3rd and Pine, New Lenox early Tuesday morning. There was not so much fire but there was a lot of smoke and most of it backed up into the utility room, according to the report at the fire station, causing some damage.

The alarm for this fire came in at 2:45 a.m.

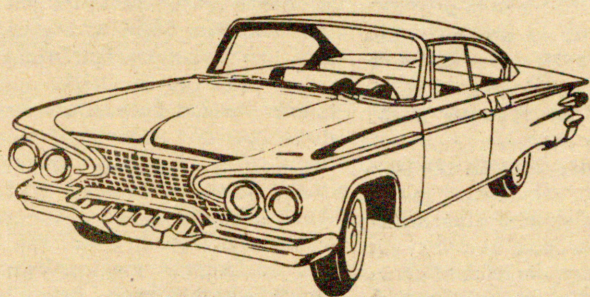

Last Thursday morning at 7 o'clock a worker at the Dad and Lad Co. on 3rd St., saw smoke coming out of the house next to the plant when he came to work. The worker, Bernard Wilda turned in an alarm. The house, home of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Seppi, had the worst smoke damage he ever saw said Fire Chief Frank Vally. The Seppis were away on a visit and firemen had to force a way into the house. They found an overstuffed chair and a mattress destroyed and a hole burned in the floor but the walls, and the ceilings, trim and furnishings were covered with a black residue from the smoke. Origin was not determined.

Subbert Seeks Re-election To Village Board

It was expected that nominating petitions would be in circulation this week or next by candidates for village offices at Frankfort.

Mayor George Sangmeister and Village Clerk Walter Pfaff, and Trustee Milton Subbert have stated they will be candidates. Last week it was erroneously stated that the three trustees whose terms expire this spring Subbert, Glenn Warning and Lynn Kohlhaugen would not be candidates for reelection. The information came from a usually reliable source but was incorrect. Subbert, who has been serving as street commissioner, said he had intended to run and Monday night at the board meeting he reiterated his intention.

Warning and Kohlhaugen had not said whether they would or would not run. Monday night Kohlhaugen was not finally committed either way nor had Warning made up his mind as to what course to follow.

He did tell Sangmeister that he had been approached to run for mayor but said he had made no commitment as to whether he would seek that office or to run for re-election.

Last day for filing nominating petitions for village offices is Feb. 27.

Besides the three trustees whose terms expire this spring there will be another elected to serve out the unexpired term of Amos (Ted) Massey who recently resigned from the board. A police magistrate also is to be elected. Herbert Folkers now holds the office and it was said he may be a candidate. He had not taken out petitions, however, up to Monday night.

DR. AND MRS. GEORGE R. MORGAN

Ann Sheridan, Dr. G. R. Morgan United In Church Ceremony

Winter floral arrangements decorated the altar of St. Mary's church Mokena, for the marriage ceremony between Miss Ann Patricia Sheridan of Mokena and Dr. George R. Morgan of Frankfort on Dec. 26, 1960.

Wedding promises were spoken by the couple at an 11 o'clock morning service with Fr. J. H. Holbrook, S. J., of Marquette university and Fr. Cecil Koop. Appropriate wedding music was played by Robert Pirc, organist of St. Raymond's church, Joliet.

Mary Lou Goes Shopping

A late afternoon tour of area food stores is an fascinating experience; it is really more of traffic problem than an experience, but whatever it is it pays to be agile.

Husbands, on their way home from work, are dashing up and down aisles with a last minute fill-gap shopping list they jotted down on the back of an envelope when the wife gave them last minute instructions over the phone, as they were leaving the office. Stock boys are restocking shelves and stamping prices on tins and packages, and at times it seems they take a little more room than is necessary. Most of them are high school boys who carry on a running conversation with one another as the re-stocking goes on. As you watch them at work, or whatever you want to call it, one can't help but wonder if the merchandise is being marked at the proper price. Apparently someone keeps an eye on them because the prices always seem to be in order.

Being sure-footed helps as these lads push loaded carts in and out of aisles and mothers, trying to get items together for dinner before dad gets home from the city, guide their cart with one hand while the other is busy keeping junior from selecting unneeded goodies. All in all we are fortunate to have fine well lighted stores to shop in and to be able to make our own selections from a variety of brands, quality and price. This week the stores again have coffee priced where it would pay

Household Hints From Home Ec

STAIN REMOVAL

It seems that in recent years, there has been an accelerating trend on the part of housewives to toss everything into the washing machine.

In addition to efforts of washer and dryer makers toward bigger and better home laundries with an ever increasing versatility, it seems as though one of the chief factors responsible for the current state of affairs has been the rise of the synthetic fiber industry and its vigorous advertising to emphasize strong points of the new fiber, one of the strongest of which is washability.

Although they may have their strong points, these synthetics still acquire stains that won't come out in the wash. Below is a handy chart that can be used in an emergency. The examples are to be used with white cottons and linen only.

EGGS AND MEAT
Sponge off with cold water and launder. Do not use hot water first.

COFFEE AND TEA
Pour boiling water from a height of two feet through the stain. Use bleach for any remaining stains.

BLOOD AND MEAT JUICE
Sponge with cold water. If stain remains, soak in diluted ammonia until loosened, then launder, first in lukewarm water.

CHOCOLATE OR COCOA
Dip the fabric up and down in hot water. Wash in hot soapy solution. Bleach any remaining stain with hydrogen peroxide. Rinse well.

CHEWING GUM
Rub with a piece of ice and scrape off the gum. If the stain remains, sponge with carbon tetrachloride or other solvent.

PERSPIRATION
Wash in hot, heavily soapy solution. Rinse well and bleach.

MILDEW
Wash in hot soapy solution. Moisten with lemon juice and salt, and dry in the sun. If the stain is old, bleach with hydrogen peroxide and rinse well.

GREASE
Rub with baby oil or talcum powder, and let stand. Shake off excess powder and launder as usual.

INK
Test first in lukewarm water for water soluble ink. Soak out stain. If it is not water soluble, sponge with cleaning fluid, or saturate spot with glycerin. Sponge clean with water.

GRASS
Rub with a cooking fat or oil and wash in hot soapy solution. Bleach any remaining stain.

Mrs. Deadmore died last Friday in the Ingalls Memorial hospital at Harvey following a lingering illness due to a heart condition.

The former Edna McDonald was born in Chicago, Aug. 25, 1895 and lived in New Lenox until her marriage to Mr. Deadmore on Aug. 18, 1921. At the time of her marriage she was the manager of the Illinois Bell Telephone Co. at New Lenox from 1919 to 1929 when she and her husband moved to Hazelcrest and then to Blue Island.

Besides her husband she is survived by a daughter Mrs. Robert (Donna) Schmidt of Richton Park; a son Daniel D. of Champaign and two grandchildren.

The real essence of work is concentration.
